IMMEDIATE RESCUE OF COLLINS IS IMPOSSIBLE

DRILL TESTS SHOW THE SHAFT MISSES CREVICE

SHAFT SINKING NOW NECESSARY TO A DEPTH OF 70 FEET

TUNNEL HORIZONTALLY 10 FEET —COLLINS IMPRISONED 15 DAYS

(By United Press)

At the Mouth of Sand Cave, Ky., Feb. 13.—Rescue of Floyd Collins from his living tomb swung into its tensest moment today when workers sent word to Red Cross officials to be "ready for anything."

The air was electric with expectation, but there was no further word as to what yas coming. Telephone lines from Sand Cave to Cave City buzzed. General H. H. Denhart was called from his lunch and hurriedly went in an automobile to the cave.

At the Mouth of Sand Cave, Ky., Feb. 13.—All hope of immediate rescue of Floyd Collins from his living tomb was abandoned early today. Drill tests revealed the shaft would miss the crevice in which Collins has lain for 15 days.

Officers said it would be necessary to sink the shaft 70 feet and then dig a tunnel horizontally for 10 feet.

A drill sent to the bottom of the shaft being sunk to free Collins from the cave in which he was trapped while on an exploration trip failed to strike limestone at the 70-foot level.

Another drill 10 feet from the shaft struck a cavern at 65 feet.

These tests killed all hope of striking the crevice which might lead to Collins' release ahead of the steady hacking.

"It will be necessary to drift toward the spot where we estimate Collins lies. If we miss his cell in the first drift we must dig another in all directions until we find where he is," H. T. Carmichael, in charge of operations, stated.

Glue-Like Muck Delays Sinking

Glue-like muck is delaying sinking of the shaft. Grim men, red-eyed from lack of sleep, struggled to shore up the sides of the shaft to prevent caveins and fight the putty-like muck that stopped the diamond drill which feels the way ahead of the diggers. Engineers cannot tell what time their shaft will reach a cavern that may lead to the entombed man.

The test drill could not work after it dropped through several feet of soft muck and reached a combination of mud and stone. Timbering of the shaft and freezing of the engine's water supply stopped drilling temporarily.

A Louisville newspaper is erecting a broadcasting station at the cave to serve its office with bulletins.

Military Inquiry

The military inquiry went on as usual today. H. H. Denhardt, commanding general here, said it probably would continue for several days.

Homer Collins, brother of Floyd, took the stand late yesterday and told of his brother's life, his love for caves and his work among them.

Floyd wanted to take him with him on the day the explorer was lost in the cave, Homer said, but he refused to go.

"I wouldn't go into that cave for no kind of money except to get Floyd out."

Floyd never had any trouble with John Gerald as far as Homer knew.

"Do you believe John Gerald tried to prevent Floyd's rescue?" one of the officers asked.

"No, sir, I don't," Homer replied.

"So far as I know nobody tried to keep anybody from helping Floyd.

He told of the beautiful cavern which Floyd said he had discovered behind his present position. Later the interrogator concluded his examination by saying:

"Homer, there has been some talk that Floyd is not in the cave. Is there a man in there?"

"Yes, sir," Homer replied.

"Did you see him?"

"Yes, sir."

"Did you talk to him and touch him?"

"Yes, sir."

"Is he Floyd Collins?"

"He positively is. I know it. I was with him four times and fed him myself."

Newspaper Men Flock to Cave

Newspaper men are dropping into Cave City by airplane, train and automobile. Nobody here knows how many have arrived. Some papers have five or six men here to watch Sand Cave, in which Floyd Collins has been imprisoned since January 30. The camp itself resembles a mining scene, except for the soldiers who march back and forth on guard. The so-called cave in which Collins lies imprisoned is not a cave so far as external appearance is concerned. It enters the earth at the foot of a rocky cliff 58 feet high.

The cave is among low hills called "knobs."

Sand Cave is at the end of a valley half a mile long about seven miles from Cave City. The valley is about 100 yards wide at its mouth and narrows down to 100 feet. It resembles a wide, shallow gorge and is lined with protruding limestone ledges.

These ledges are ascended easily enough in places but in others are vertical and overhanging.

At the end of the gorge is a spot about 50 feet deep which is roofed with overhanging rocks. A man can stand under this natural roof, even at the wall.

It is at the foot of this wall that the cave enters. It is not a cave in the usual sense but a long wide hole. It is only a little ledge for the most part, except that it broadens slightly in places.

Under the low roof of the pocket is the shaft, with a wooden track running down the gorge. That track carries steel dump cars such as are used in a mine.

The cars are loaded at the shaft by an iron basket.

Guards Mess and Sleep in Tents

Guards mess and sleep in tents, about 20 in number, on the brow of the cliff.

The operating crew consists of a timber gang working in eight-hour shifts, miners in the shaft, working 30-minute shifts and engineers handling the drills and other machinery on 12-hour shifts. There is another shift on duty continuously, and that is Collins, employee of the Kentucky Rock Asphalt Company. Nobody knows when Carmichael, the boss, sleeps.

Light is furnished by a farm lighting outfit. Workmen say Carmichael is breaking a world's record in sinking the shaft so rapidly in the face of heart-breaking difficulties.

"DIG ON" IS ONLY COMMAND HEARD

At the Mouth of Sand Cave, Ky., Feb. 13.—"Dig on."

That was still the word at the shaft being sunk toward Floyd Collins' living tomb today.

Tense excitement caused by the discovery of a pocket crevice 16 inches wide caused the report to be flashed over the country at first that Collins had been heard to call and later that he had been taken out alive.

All interest centered about the shaft and word was sent to H. T. Carmichael, in charge of operations.

Brigadier General H. H. Denhart, military commander, rushed to the scene from Cave City. Red Cross nurses and doctors were told to be "ready for anything."

Then a rescue worker entered the shaft. He crawled along it for 25 feet, then met a blank wall. So the excitement died out and diggers went back to work. They were heartened by the hope that another crevice might prove more fruitful. Drillings made early today as far down as the 75 foot level failed to indicate any cavity and it was asserted that the sole means of getting to Collins was to drive a horizontal tunnel from the shaft.

OFFICIAL STATEMENT ON SHAFT OPERATION

At the Mouth of Sand Cave, Ky., Feb. 13.—The official statement indicated that unless some unexpected crevice is struck or the average of 10 feet in 24 hours was improved upon Collins would not be reached before tomorrow afternoon.

The text of the official communique issued at 1:25 p. m. reads:

KILLED 5 OVER A DEBT OF $12, HANGED TODAY

JOHN KAMMERER, A BAVARIAN WAITER, PAYS PENALTY ON GALLOWS

HANDFUL OF MEN WITNESS THE EXECUTION AT WHEATON, ILLINOIS

(By United Press)

Wheaton, Ill., Feb. 13—John Kammerer, 47, a Bavarian waiter, was hanged here today for the murder of a family of five because of a debt of $12.

The trap was sprung at 10:39. Only a handful of men were permitted to witness the execution. Kammerer was pronounced dead at 10:53.

The parade from Kammerer's cell started a few moments before 10:30. In the parade were the sheriff, a priest, Deputy Sheriff Lyle Grange, father of Red Grange, the football star, and a few others.

A white robe and white cap were placed on Kammerer. He was clean shaven, having removed the long beard he wore for several weeks.

Kammerer slept soundly through the night until 5:30 a. m., when he awoke. Lifting his watch, he then went back to sleep and later was awakened. He had a meagre breakfast of rolls and coffee.

Kammerer killed Mr. and Mrs. Otto Eder and their three children following a quarrel, largely over a matter of $12. Kammerer said Eder refused to pay back the loan. A hatchet and knife were used by the slayer. The killings occurred at the Eder home at Villa Park near here. He escaped to Chicago, where he was detected. He then confessed.

Mrs. Agnes Hieslaw, sister of Mrs. Eder, came to the jail and asked to be permitted to witness the hanging but her request was refused. Mrs. Hieslaw said she wanted to see the dead body of the slayer and went to the undertaking parlor which is to dispose of the remains.

Jury Completed In Stokes Trial Charging Defamation

Chicago, Feb. 13.—The jury in the Stokes defamation of character trial was completed today and the opening statements of the defense and prosecution will be made at the afternoon session. Taking of testimony is scheduled for tomorrow. Mrs. Helen Elwood Stokes charges that W. E. D. Stokes, her former husband, bribed underworld characters to swear to affidavits to the effect that she had lived in a notorious resort here about 20 years ago.

"The shaft bottom has now reached a distance of 50 feet from the top of the tippering. Indications are that a new shaft must be bored into the tippering 10 feet. This will strike a nine-foot cavity shown by the diamond drill test. This cavity, we have reason to believe, is on a level with the tunnel in which Collins is imprisoned. If this fails we will start another and keep on until the cavity is located. It is hoped that this will lead through to the prisoner."

CONSTITUTION AMENDERS IN NEW CHALLENGE

AIM AT BONDS EXEMPT FROM ALL TAXATION

IF CARRIED, CLAIM TAXES CAN BE REDUCED 20 PER CENT

(By United Press)

Washington, Feb. 13—The wave to reform present methods of government—which now is rolling over Congress and the country—is headed for the system of taxation under which citizens now pay for the operation of their government.

With renewed efforts for tax reduction contemplated by President Coolidge and his republican leaders in congress, talk has been revived as to methods for throttling tax exempt securities.

Millions are lost to the government coffers under the present system. Rich men with large incomes have invested their money in tax free government, state and municipal bonds so they will not have to pay income taxes. It has been said by financial experts that if this loophole could be plugged, the tares of the average man in the United States could be lowered 20 per cent.

Hence plans are going forward, particularly in the house of representatives, to force through a resolution by Chairman Green of the house ways and means committee which would amend the constitution and permit congress to tax "income derived from securities issued by or under the authority of any state."

The present session is too far gone to permit of any action, but there had been no intention from the beginning to bring up this moot question before the new tax bill is considered. Mr. Coolidge, it is said, will summon congress, probably next September, to consider a new tax reduction bill. At that time Green in the house and Senator Reed, Pennsylvania republican, in the senate, will revive the issue and force a vote.

The plan of taxing state bonds has almost the unanimous approval of treasury officials, including Secretary of the Treasury Mellon. He raised the point when the present law was under consideration and a fight for the project was made in both houses, but thwarted when the house defeated it.

Of more than 50 amendments to the constitution, now pending in congress, six are devoted to the problem of taxing state bonds. All are pending before committees of the house and none has received enough impetus to be reported to the floor.

The chief objection to the proposal is that it might be considered an effort to usurp state rights. But it is pointed out in answer to this argument that three-fourths of the states must ratify the proposal before it becomes effective as an amendment to the constitution. If three-fourths of the states sanction the plan, it could safely be said they did not consider it deprived them of any rights, proponents of the project say.

The Green resolution reads as follows:

"The United States shall have power to lay and collect taxes upon income derived from securities issued after the ratification of this article by or under the authority of any state, but without discrimination against income derived from such securities and in favor of income derived from securities after the ratification of this article by or under the authority of the United States.

"Each state shall have power to lay and collect taxes upon income derived by its residents from securities issued after the ratification of this article or by the authority of the United States, but without discrimination against income derived from such securities and in favor of income derived from securities issued after the ratification of this article by or under the authority of such."

The other five resolutions are very similar. One by Representative Dickinson of Missouri would, in addition, prevent the issuance by any further tax exempt securities by either the Federal or state governments. Another by Representative Little would only tax income from tax exempt securities which is in excess of $12,000 a year, aiming only at the big investors.

RACE FOR THE SPEAKERSHIP IN DRAMATIC TURN

(By United Press)

Washington, Feb. 13.—The race for the speakership of the next Congress took a dramatic turn today when Representative Britten of Illinois, manager of the candidacy of Representative Martin D. Madden of Illinois, in a statement urged Representative Longworth of Ohio to withdraw to permit the Illinois member to achieve the "capstone" of his long political career.

Britten said if Longworth wuold "gracefully" retire from the contest making certain Madden's election, Madden would retire from Congress at the expiration of one term as presiding officer.

COOLIDGE WILL NOT WITHDRAW NOMINATIONS MADE

STATES HIS STAND ON MATTER TO THE SENATE LEADERS

IF SENATE DOES NOT LIKE THEM, IT CAN DO WHAT IT PLEASES

(By United Press)

Washington, Feb. 13.—President Coolidge has sent word to his Senate leaders that he will not withdraw the three important nominations he recently sent to them, which are now involved in consideration that threatens their confirmation.

These are the appointments of Charles R. Warren, to be attorney-general, Thomas F. Woodlock to be a member of the Interstate Commerce commission and William E. Humphrey to be a member of the Federal Trade commission.

The president takes the position that the nominations are satisfactory to him and that if the senate doesn't like them it can do what it pleases—but he won't withdraw them.

This probably will result in throwing all the nominations over after the present Senate expires on March 4. The new Senate then would likely confirm them, inasmuch as the republicans have a safe majority.

Mellon Prefers Iron to Regular Horses, He Says

Washington, Feb. 13.—Secretary of the Treasury Andrew Mellon enjoys riding an electric horse similar to "Old Ironsides" used by Pres. Coolidge at the White House.

"They are great things," Mellon said today. "But I haven't one at home. I have ridden them on board ship and enjoyed the ride.

"They are much safer than regular horses."

Mellon said he had never ridden the White House steed.

"I didn't know Mr. Coolidge had one," he explained.

Uncle Robert to Urge Walking on Sidewalks

St. Paul, Feb. 13.—"S. O. S."—Stay on Sidewalk," will be the subject of a series of talks to be given by "Uncle Robert," New York philanthropist, in St. Paul next week.

"Uncle Robert," known throughout the United States as a friend to crippled and blind children, will speak before the Optimist club Monday; the Rotary club Tuesday; open forum of the St. Paul Association on Wednesday and before the Kiwanis club Thursday.

TOUR TO NEW ENGLAND, ALSO TO MINNESOTA

WILL ATTEND CENTENARY CELEBRATION OF NORSE-AMERICANS

IN TEXAS JOURNEY WILL VISIT HOUSTON AND MINERAL WELLS

(By United Press)

Washington, Feb. 13.—President Coolidge, who has stayed close to the capital during his year and a half in the White House, plans to make trips covering many parts of the nation, soon after his inauguration, March 4. He will not visit the coast, according to present plans.

He has definitely agreed to visit New England in April or June and Minnesota in June and he has intimated his intention of swinging through the south on his way to Texas, where he has been invited to attend two big conventions. Other invitations are being considered.

Mr. Coolidge, until now, has felt that the duties of his office required the closest attention and he has wished to economize in every way as an example to other government officials. After his inauguration in his own right, however, he is said to feel he can well afford to spend several days visiting the nation.

The president's Minneapolis and St. Paul engagement is to attend the centenary celebration of Norse-Americans settled in the Northwest. The projected Texas journey involved attendance at meetings of advertising organizations at Houston and of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce at Mineral Hills.

ANTI-SEDITION LAWS OF STATE MAY BE REPEALED

COMMITTEE ACTION ON THE STARKEY-STOCKWELL BILL POSTPONED

HOUSE COMMITTEE ON CRIME PREVENTION OPPOSES THE BILL

(By United Press)

St. Paul, Feb. 13.—Committee action on the Starkey-Stockwell bill to repeal the state anti-sedition laws was postponed today for one week.

The house committee on crime prevention opposed the bill, opposition being registered by Rep. Milton C. Lightner, St. Paul, Andrew Finstuen of Kenyon and Rep. F. C. Fredericks, Caledonia. Others also spoke against repeal of the sedition laws passed during the war. The measure probably would have been defeated today had it not been for Representative Stockwell, who asked postponement for one week because of a death in his family and his inability to attend sessions.

CONTEMPLATE HALF MILLION DOLLAR STATE OLD AGE PENSION FUND

St. Paul, Feb. 13.—Establishment of a half million dollar state old age pension fund—with an administrative force of 351 individuals—would be authorized under a bill introduced in the legislature today by Senators George Nordlin, St. Paul, W. C. Zamboni of Duluth and A. L. Lennon, Minneapolis.

Salaries of the administrative force would total at a minimum around $178,000.

The bill would provide that every person 70 years old or older, resident of Minnesota for 15 years or more, with less than $300 and no source of income and with a clear court record would be entitled to $1 a day pension from the state. The bill was referred to the committee on finances.

IMMEDIATE RESCUE OF COLLINS IS IMPOSSIBLE

DRILL TESTS SHOW THE SHAFT MISSES CREVICE

SHAFT SINKING NOW NECESSARY TO A DEPTH OF 70 FEET

TUNNEL HORIZONTALLY 10 FEET —COLLINS IMPRISONED 15 DAYS

At the Mouth of Sand Cave, Ky., Feb. 13.—Rescue of Floyd Collins from his living tomb swung into its tensest moment today when workers sent word to Red Cross officials to be "ready for anything."

"The shaft bottom has now reached a distance of 50 feet from the top of the tippering. Indications are that a new shaft must be bored into the tippering 10 feet. This will strike a nine-foot cavity shown by the diamond drill test. This cavity, we have reason to believe, is on a level with the tunnel in which Collins is imprisoned. If this fails we will start another and keep on until the cavity is located. It is hoped that this will lead through to the prisoner."

CONSTITUTION AMENDERS IN NEW CHALLENGE

AIM AT BONDS EXEMPT FROM ALL TAXATION

IF CARRIED, CLAIM TAXES CAN BE REDUCED 20 PER CENT

(By United Press)

Washington, Feb. 13—The wave to reform present methods of government—which now is rolling over Congress and the country—is headed for the system of taxation under which citizens now pay for the operation of their government.

With renewed efforts for tax reduction contemplated by President Coolidge and his republican leaders in congress, talk has been revived as to methods for throttling tax exempt securities.

Millions are lost to the government coffers under the present system. Rich men with large incomes have invested their money in tax free government, state and municipal bonds so they will not have to pay income taxes. It has been said by financial experts that if this loophole could be plugged, the tares of the average man in the United States could be lowered 20 per cent.

Hence plans are going forward, particularly in the house of representatives, to force through a resolution by Chairman Green of the house ways and means committee which would amend the constitution and permit congress to tax "income derived from securities issued by or under the authority of any state."

The present session is too far gone to permit of any action, but there had been no intention from the beginning to bring up this moot question before the new tax bill is considered. Mr. Coolidge, it is said, will summon congress, probably next September, to consider a new tax reduction bill. At that time Green in the house and Senator Reed, Pennsylvania republican, in the senate, will revive the issue and force a vote.

The plan of taxing state bonds has almost the unanimous approval of treasury officials, including Secretary of the Treasury Mellon. He raised the point when the present law was under consideration and a fight for the project was made in both houses, but thwarted when the house defeated it.

Of more than 50 amendments to the constitution, now pending in congress, six are devoted to the problem of taxing state bonds. All are pending before committees of the house and none has received enough impetus to be reported to the floor.

The chief objection to the proposal is that it might be considered an effort to usurp state rights. But it is pointed out in answer to this argument that three-fourths of the states must ratify the proposal before it becomes effective as an amendment to the constitution. If three-fourths of the states sanction the plan, it could safely be said they did not consider it deprived them of any rights, proponents of the project say.

The Green resolution reads as follows:

"The United States shall have power to lay and collect taxes upon income derived from securities issued after the ratification of this article by or under the authority of any state, but without discrimination against income derived from such securities and in favor of income derived from securities after the ratification of this article by or under the authority of the United States.

"Each state shall have power to lay and collect taxes upon income derived by its residents from securities issued after the ratification of this article or by the authority of the United States, but without discrimination against income derived from such securities and in favor of income derived from securities issued after the ratification of this article by or under the authority of such."

The other five resolutions are very similar. One by Representative Dickinson of Missouri would, in addition, prevent the issuance by any further tax exempt securities by either the Federal or state governments. Another by Representative Little would only tax income from tax exempt securities which is in excess of $12,000 a year, aiming only at the big investors.

RACE FOR THE SPEAKERSHIP IN DRAMATIC TURN

(By United Press)

Washington, Feb. 13.—The race for the speakership of the next Congress took a dramatic turn today when Representative Britten of Illinois, manager of the candidacy of Representative Martin D. Madden of Illinois, in a statement urged Representative Longworth of Ohio to withdraw to permit the Illinois member to achieve the "capstone" of his long political career.

Britten said if Longworth would "gracefully" retire from the contest making certain Madden's election, Madden would retire from Congress at the expiration of one term as presiding officer.

COOLIDGE WILL NOT WITHDRAW NOMINATIONS MADE

STATES HIS STAND ON MATTER TO THE SENATE LEADERS

IF SENATE DOES NOT LIKE THEM, IT CAN DO WHAT IT PLEASES

(By United Press)

Washington, Feb. 13.—President Coolidge has sent word to his Senate leaders that he will not withdraw the three important nominations he recently sent to them, which are now involved in consideration that threatens their confirmation.

These are the appointments of Charles R. Warren, to be attorney-general, Thomas F. Woodlock to be a member of the Interstate Commerce commission and William E. Humphrey to be a member of the Federal Trade commission.

The president takes the position that the nominations are satisfactory to him and that if the senate doesn't like them it can do what it pleases—but he won't withdraw them.

This probably will result in throwing all the nominations over after the present Senate expires on March 4. The new Senate then would likely confirm them, inasmuch as the republicans have a safe majority.

Mellon Prefers Iron to Regular Horses, He Says

Washington, Feb. 13.—Secretary of the Treasury Andrew Mellon enjoys riding an electric horse similar to "Old Ironsides" used by Pres. Coolidge at the White House.

"They are great things," Mellon said today. "But I haven't one at home. I have ridden them on board ship and enjoyed the ride.

"They are much safer than regular horses."

Mellon said he had never ridden the White House steed.

"I didn't know Mr. Coolidge had one," he explained.

Uncle Robert to Urge Walking on Sidewalks

St. Paul, Feb. 13.—"S. O. S."—Stay on Sidewalk," will be the subject of a series of talks to be given by "Uncle Robert," New York philanthropist, in St. Paul next week.

"Uncle Robert," known throughout the United States as a friend to crippled and blind children, will speak before the Optimist club Monday; the Rotary club Tuesday; open forum of the St. Paul Association on Wednesday and before the Kiwanis club Thursday.

TOUR TO NEW ENGLAND, ALSO TO MINNESOTA

WILL ATTEND CENTENARY CELEBRATION OF NORSE-AMERICANS

IN TEXAS JOURNEY WILL VISIT HOUSTON AND MINERAL WELLS

(By United Press)

Washington, Feb. 13.—President Coolidge, who has stayed close to the capital during his year and a half in the White House, plans to make trips covering many parts of the nation, soon after his inauguration, March 4. He will not visit the coast, according to present plans.

He has definitely agreed to visit New England in April or June and Minnesota in June and he has intimated his intention of swinging through the south on his way to Texas, where he has been invited to attend two big conventions. Other invitations are being considered.

Mr. Coolidge, until now, has felt that the duties of his office required the closest attention and he has wished to economize in every way as an example to other government officials. After his inauguration in his own right, however, he is said to feel he can well afford to spend several days visiting the nation.

The president's Minneapolis and St. Paul engagement is to attend the centenary celebration of Norse-Americans settled in the Northwest. The projected Texas journey involved attendance at meetings of advertising organizations at Houston and of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce at Mineral Hills.

ANTI-SEDITION LAWS OF STATE MAY BE REPEALED

COMMITTEE ACTION ON THE STARKEY-STOCKWELL BILL POSTPONED

HOUSE COMMITTEE ON CRIME PREVENTION OPPOSES THE BILL

(By United Press)

St. Paul, Feb. 13.—Committee action on the Starkey-Stockwell bill to repeal the state anti-sedition laws was postponed today for one week.

The house committee on crime prevention opposed the bill, opposition being registered by Rep. Milton C. Lightner, St. Paul, Andrew Finstuen of Kenyon and Rep. F. C. Fredericks, Caledonia. Others also spoke against repeal of the sedition laws passed during the war. The measure probably would have been defeated today had it not been for Representative Stockwell, who asked postponement for one week because of a death in his family and his inability to attend sessions.

CONTEMPLATE HALF MILLION DOLLAR STATE OLD AGE PENSION FUND

St. Paul, Feb. 13.—Establishment of a half million dollar state old age pension fund—with an administrative force of 351 individuals—would be authorized under a bill introduced in the legislature today by Senators George Nordlin, St. Paul, W. C. Zamboni of Duluth and A. L. Lennon, Minneapolis.

Salaries of the administrative force would total at a minimum around $178,000.

The bill would provide that every person 70 years old or older, resident of Minnesota for 15 years or more, with less than $300 and no source of income and with a clear court record would be entitled to $1 a day pension from the state. The bill was referred to the committee on finances.

City Attorney D. H. Fullerton spoke at the Brainerd Commercial College on Lincoln's birthday, explaining the proper and improper uses and methods of displaying the American flag, being a part of the program carried out in all of the schools by the American Legion yesterday.

Mrs. Harry Bright and son Donnie, returned from their western trip Tuesday morning, Mr. Bright going down to Brainerd to meet them. Mrs. Bright was not impressed with the west on account of the rainy weather but probably witnessed the country at its worst as the rainy season is on. Mrs. Bright was visiting a sister at Seattle but at Spokane, on the return trip, had the pleasure of meeting ten old friends and former Walker residents who took special pains to meet her train for the short but welcome visit. Among those who were in the party were Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Coppernoll, Mr. and Mrs. Edward King, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh McDougall, Mrs. A. N. Christy, Miss Alison Christy and Grandma Christy. Mrs. Bright states that money seemed to be plentiful in the west but she is no duck and it rained every day she was there so there is some grounds for knocking a wee bit.—Walker Pilot.

The bride was becomingly attired in blue satin and carried a bouquet of white carnations.

Mrs. Knerr is well known in Brainerd. She is a graduate of the local high school and normal and for the past few years has been teaching in the schools of the county.

CARL WRIGHT ON CITY PARKS

Park Commissioner Addresses Whittier Parent-Teachers Association

REVIEWS 3 PARKS OF CITY

Miss Louise Barrett Explained Teachers' Retirement Fund Bill

The Whittier parent-teachers' association met on Tuesday evening, and held for those present much that was instructive and interesting.

Carl J. Wright, chairman of the Brainerd park board, gave a splendid talk on the city parks, especially as they touch upon the life of the young people of the city. He gave the history of the acquisition of each park and the present board's policy of management.

Mr. Wright spoke first of Gregory park, and told of the tree-planting and beautifying, explaining the desire of the board to have it a playground in some sections as well as a beauty spot in others. He gave much credit to Henry Nolan for the time and trouble he has taken in caring for the flooding of the skating rink there this winter.

Going on to Lum park, Mr. Wright showed the real use the city made of the pleasure spot last summer, and stated that one evening when a count was taken, 1,700 people and 370 automobiles were on the grounds at one time. He praised the Northeast Brainerd children's garden contest held last fall, and advocated the furthering of such contests, offering the Lum park pavilion as an exposition building if desired.

Speaking of the tourist park, Mr. Wright mentioned the opinion expressed by some few that it was only a place where the city was making a night easy for many good-for-nothings. Since many of Brainerd's most selfrespecting citizens have travelled this way and used other cities' tourist parks, this opinion is a most unwarranted one.

The speaker's presentation of his subject was exceedingly able and interesting, and those who failed to attend the meeting missed a splendid talk to both parents and other citizens.

Miss Louise Barrett explained the teachers' retirement fund bill, and stated that it was considered by the teachers to be very fair to both them and to the state. The association unanimously expressed its willingness to promote in any way the passage of this bill.

Miss Barrett announced also that parents having children who will be six years old before June 1st, should notify her by next week, if they wish these children to enter school for the spring term.

Mrs. C. D. McKay showed much thought and preparation in her handling of the subject, "Parenthood, the greatest job on earth." Heredity and environment were discussed and the need of trying to understand a child's reasons for his action were stressed.

City Attorney D. H. Fullerton added to the enjoyment of the evening with a group of songs, "To You," "Where Blossoms Grow" and "Love Sends a Little Gift of Roses." Miss Mildred Skauge accompanied him at the piano.

UNCLE SAM AS A BARTENDER

IF America must have a national bartender, let Uncle Sam do the liquor selling, is the way many druggists of the Minnesota Pharmaceutical association size up the situation.

Sewall D. Andrews, president of the National Wholesale Druggists association, viewed the matter in this light, that druggists generally are opposed to the sale of liquor for medicinal purposes and want to be relieved of the responsibility.

"The practice of dispensing liquor on prescriptions," continued Mr. Andrews, "has worked an unnecessary hardship on druggists and has been a constant source of annoyance, if not of embarrassment. Druggists originally declared against the sale of so-called medicinal liquor, and have since learned that a nuisance has been saddled onto them.

"Many druggists have already abandoned the 'privilege' of selling liquor because of the trouble created. It is only right that the federal government take over this liquor sale. Let Uncle Sam be his own bartender, affording a stricter regulation over sales as well as freeing the druggists of their most annoying responsibilities."

JURY TAMPERING

BRAINERD has had a case of alleged jury tampering and it is with interest that one scans the recent case in St. Paul in which a conviction was secured. As mentioned by the St. Paul Daily News, in sentencing James Dunbar to a 90-day workhouse sentence for jury tampering, Judge Michael made an observation which the legislature should most seriously consider.

"It is unfortunate," remarked the judge, "that this is the maximum sentence, and that a greater penalty cannot be imposed. Anyone who attempts to tamper with a juror is undermining the foundation of civil government and no penalty is too severe for his punishment."

The view of the judge is thoroughly correct, and a fitting example is presented which ought to induce quick and decisive action on the part of the legislature. A prison term covering several years should be the minimum penalty. As the law now stands, it places a premium on jury fixing.

THE RADIO JOKE

IF you want a joke to spread, tell it on the radio. On the occasion of Bobby Burns' birthday anniversary some club put on a Scotch program, had "Annie Laurie" sung and played in multifarious ways and then told a Scotch joke of the Jew at the grand opening of the Edinburgh store who traded in an egg for a darning needle, got a free drink of sherry on the side containing the very egg traded for the darning needle and then shuffled around and wanted another free drink because the said egg contained two yolks.

Well, every Brainerd man with a radio tuning in on that particular station, heard the Scotch joke. One of the radio fans told it at a luncheon club meeting and it came second-handed to every radio fan there who had previously heard the story.

Yes, the radio beats any back-fence gossip for swiftness in distribution.

ELKS STATE CONVENTION

THAT the Elks state convention, to be held in Brainerd next August, is being considered by sister lodges of the state, is evident from the fact that St. Cloud lodge, as reported by J. R. Spiering, is preparing to send its Boys band to take part in the huge parade.

The Boys band of St. Cloud now has a membership of close to 245 and when in marching order fills a block length. With their natty suits and spirited playing, they make a universal appeal and the band will be one of the great attractions on Elks parade day.

Business men of St. Cloud are now working out plans for conveying the Boys band to Brainerd and taking them home again. It is quite a problem as the business men vouch for the safe travel and upkeep of the boys.

A FOREST PRIMEVAL

NORTHEASTERN MINNESOTA is to be permanently retained as a forest primeval. This section has never seen the saw and ax and the action of the state board of timber commissioners converts the region into a great natural park, in which game haunts and refuges will no doubt also be preserved.

The action was taken at the request of former Governor Preus and the adoption of the resolution was virtually the last official act of the retiring governor. The resolution provides that hereafter the board will not authorize the sale of state owned timber in that section.

BASKETBALL GAME TONIGHT

THE basketball game between Brainerd and Wadena high schools at the high school auditorium tonight is of special significance because it is the last game of the district season on the home floor. A large crowd should attend and show its appreciation of the fine game played all season by Brainerd high.

And the preliminary between second teams of Staples and Brainerd high schools will also carry its modicum of thrills. Better buy a ticket early and help swell the crowd tonight.

SOMEHOW, we believe that we had rather be a small-town business man, than a clerk in a large city, driven to work in the early hours by an alarm clock, spending his leisure time hanging on a strap riding to and from work and punching in and out each morning and evening on a time clock. But maybe the glad welcome of the morning sun, the hearty words of cheer from friends and neighbors, does not mean so much to everyone, comments the Bemidji Daily Pioneer.

SOME people, anticipating the end of the world during the eclipse, paid all their debts and awaited the end without fear. An eclipse every month might stimulate the general financial situation.

AUXILIARY OFFICERS DISCOURAGE SALE OF COMMERCIAL POPPIES

Mrs. O. D. Oliphant, national Legion Auxiliary president, and Mrs. Adalin McCauley, national chairman of the poppy committee through the national executive committee, have requested officers of departments and posts of the American Legion and of the departments and units of the Auxiliary throughout the United States to refrain from buying any commercial poppies, and to lend their influence to the suppression of any commercial poppy program in the United States. This follows out the proposals of the national convention held in St. Paul last September when a poppy program was adopted which eliminated the commercial poppy from the sale supply of the Auxiliary, and provided for the making of the poppy by the needy and disabled service men and women, and by units. This warning has been made necessary because of the efforts of a commercial maker of poppies circulating the Auxiliary of America promoting the sale of a so-called "Flanders Field Poppy."

UNCLE SAM AS A BARTENDER

IF America must have a national bartender, let Uncle Sam do the liquor selling, is the way many druggists of the Minnesota Pharmaceutical association size up the situation.

Sewall D. Andrews, president of the National Wholesale Druggists association, viewed the matter in this light, that druggists generally are opposed to the sale of liquor for medicinal purposes and want to be relieved of the responsibility.

"The practice of dispensing liquor on prescriptions," continued Mr. Andrews, "has worked an unnecessary hardship on druggists and has been a constant source of annoyance, if not of embarrassment. Druggists originally declared against the sale of so-called medicinal liquor, and have since learned that a nuisance has been saddled onto them.

"Many druggists have already abandoned the 'privilege' of selling liquor because of the trouble created. It is only right that the federal government take over this liquor sale. Let Uncle Sam be his own bartender, affording a stricter regulation over sales as well as freeing the druggists of their most annoying responsibilities."

JURY TAMPERING

BRAINERD has had a case of alleged jury tampering and it is with interest that one scans the recent case in St. Paul in which a conviction was secured. As mentioned by the St. Paul Daily News, in sentencing James Dunbar to a 90-day workhouse sentence for jury tampering, Judge Michael made an observation which the legislature should most seriously consider.

"It is unfortunate," remarked the judge, "that this is the maximum sentence, and that a greater penalty cannot be imposed. Anyone who attempts to tamper with a juror is undermining the foundation of civil government and no penalty is too severe for his punishment."

SUGGESTIVE BROADWAY COMEDY COARSE

STAR IN ONE PLAY REFUSES TO GO ON WITH HER PART

SAYS SOME THINGS IN LIFE MAY BE LEFT TO THE IMAGINATION

(St. Paul Daily News)

New York, Feb. 13.—The New York stage is becoming rougher and rougher in more ways than one. Here are some of the latest incidents in high stage circles:

Nanny Larsen Todsen, playing Brunnhilde in "Die Gotterdamerung," was stepped on by a horse and injured.

In the opera "Fedora" Benjamino Gigli hurled Mme. Jaritza into the footlights and she narrowly escaped plunging into the orchestra pit.

Eddie Garvie shot Clifton Self with a gun he didn't know was loaded in "Hell's Bells."

Mme. Jeritza appeared weeping after her final scene at the Metropolitan last night—and there were rumors that she had been roughly handled by some one back stage.

New York, Feb. 13.—New York plays have gone to extremes of late, which have caused members of the audience to walk out and the police to walk in, but something apprcaching the limit appears to have been reached in "A Good Bad Woman."

Helen MacKellar, the star, refuses to go on with her part, according to her personal press agent.

Theatregoers who shivered at the nudity of Leonore Ulric in "The Harem" and coughed embarrassedly at the remarks of "Ladies of the Evening" and hissed at the disclosures in "Simon Called Peter," blanched in silence when Miss MacKellar mouthed the obscenities of her part at the comedy. And that, says Miss MacKellar, is too much for any actress to put up with.

So she has given Al Woods and William A. Brady, producers of "A Good Bad Woman," five days in which to find a substitute.

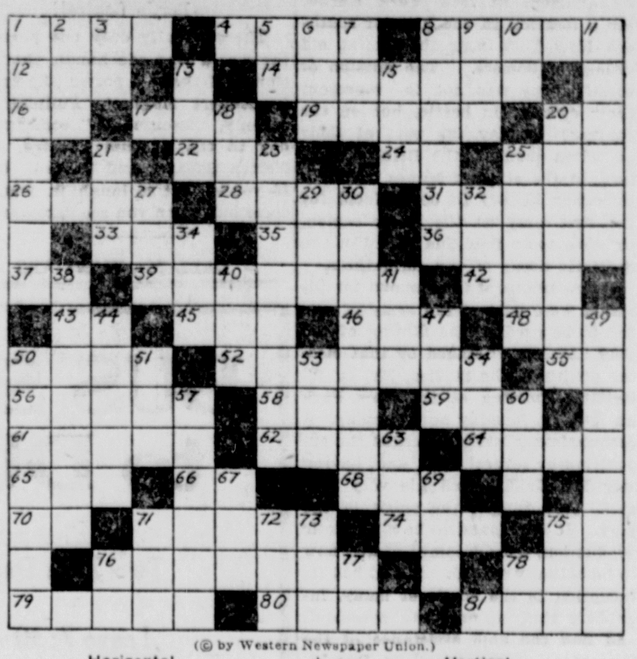

If they fail to do so she will sue them for jeopardizing her career by forcing her to play such a part.

Miss MacKellar's objections to playing Eilene Donovan, the good bad woman of the piece, cast interesting light upon just how far an actress should be required to go in depicting life, especially life of the negligee and gin variety.

"I don't mind playing the part of a prostitute if I can show her soul," the actress explained. "What I object to—well, really, there are some things in life that might be left to the imagination."

Woods and Brady believe that Miss MacKellar will overcome a woman's natural aversion to the part before her ultimatum expires.

4 BIG VAUDEVILLE ACTS

With Feature Picture to be Shown at New Park Saturday, Popular Prices

The New Park will present four big vaudeville acts and feature picture "Bright Lights of Broadway" starring Harrison Ford, Doris Kenyson and Charles Murray on Saturday matinee and night at popular prices. A short description of the acts to be presented is as follows:

Crescent Comedy Four in "The New Teacher." Crescent Comedy Four are rated as one of the best comedy quartets in vaudeville, and they surely prove same by their uproarious funny offering. Their acts brings back fond recollections of school-days, and is a scream from start to finish. They are bound to please the most fastidious.

Three Harmony Maids "Youth, Pep and Beauty." With bewitching personalities, and more than passing pulchritude, this trio of young ladies in costumes that are the personification of youth, gaily romp through their repertoire of comedy harmony singing and dancing, evincing the fact that there is absolutely nothing lacking in the act to make it perfect in every detail. The "Three Harmony Maids" are one of the most refined acts in vaudeville.

Johnson and May in "Take Back Your Presents." Johnson and May are a happy duo of fun-makers whose act consists of wholesome, clean comedy talking, whistling and singing. There is an offering that will delight, amuse and entertain any audience.

Walsh and Kramer in "Who Me? Alright." They are surely gloom dispersers, so if anyone has the blues trouble or a grouch they had better take their sorrow to the theatre and have a cure pronounced. Their wholesome comedy and singing are sure to create many happy moments for every theatre-goer.

That the people of Brainerd appreciate vaudeville that is being presented every Saturday at the New Park is evidenced by the capacity houses at that popular theatre and also by the amount of applause given acts. Speaking of applause, it is really worth while to applaud a vaudeville act that you like due to the fact that most vaudeville acts save the best part of their act for the encore. And it is a well-known fact that a vaudeville artist will present a much better performance if the audience shows its appreciation by giving him generous applause. Furthermore it is the best way the management has of finding out the type of acts that the public wants.

Reinforce Glands To Keep Young Says Scientist

DR. ARNOLD LORAND, of Austria, says in his book, "Old Age Deferred," in speaking of the glands: "We must insist upon the reinforcement of their functions if changed by age or disease by means of extracts obtained from the similar organs of healthy young animals."

Glandogen, the new scientific gland tonic, prepared in tablet form, provides a simple method of taking glandular treatment.

Hundreds of men and women who are weak, worn-out and run-down, are taking Glandogen to awaken the devitalized glands so they may continue their normal function of supplying the vital glandular secretions so necessary to physical energy and perfect health.

Glandogen is obtainable at Johnson's Pharmacy and Economy Drug Co.

40 Kinds of Pain quickly stopped in this way

There are countless pains which one can stop—stop them in a moment. The pains allied to rheumatism, to soreness, lameness and chest colds.

Millions of people have done this, and for 65 years, by rubbing with St. Jacobs Oil. They have saved eons of suffering. It is folly not to do this the moment a pain appears.

St. Jacobs Oil acts in two ways. First, it causes counter irritation which relieves countless pains. Then it brings the blood to the surface to relieve the congestion which causes other pains and dangers.

Rub it on the sore spot whenever a pain appears. Rub it on the chest as soon as a chest cold starts. Don't suffer, don't take risks. And don't be forced to wait for relief. Keep St. Jacobs Oil on hand.

Nature will deal with the cause of the trouble. Or perhaps other helps may be necessary. But the first thing is to get relief. Stop the pain.

Some may suggest other ways to do this. But St. Jacobs Oil has done it for millions — done it for 65 years. You can rely on it—your druggist guarantees it. Let this time-tested way draw out the pain at once. Get it before the pain begins. Have it ready. You may in that way save many unhappy hours.

SUGGESTIVE BROADWAY COMEDY COARSE

STAR IN ONE PLAY REFUSES TO GO ON WITH HER PART

SAYS SOME THINGS IN LIFE MAY BE LEFT TO THE IMAGINATION

(St. Paul Daily News)

New York, Feb. 13.—The New York stage is becoming rougher and rougher in more ways than one. Here are some of the latest incidents in high stage circles:

Nanny Larsen Todsen, playing Brunnhilde in "Die Gotterdamerung," was stepped on by a horse and injured.

In the opera "Fedora" Benjamino Gigli hurled Mme. Jaritza into the footlights and she narrowly escaped plunging into the orchestra pit.

Eddie Garvie shot Clifton Self with a gun he didn't know was loaded in "Hell's Bells."

Mme. Jeritza appeared weeping after her final scene at the Metropolitan last night—and there were rumors that she had been roughly handled by some one back stage.

New York, Feb. 13.—New York plays have gone to extremes of late, which have caused members of the audience to walk out and the police to walk in, but something approaching the limit appears to have been reached in "A Good Bad Woman."

Helen MacKellar, the star, refuses to go on with her part, according to her personal press agent.

Theatregoers who shivered at the nudity of Leonore Ulric in "The Harem" and coughed embarrassedly at the remarks of "Ladies of the Evening" and hissed at the disclosures in "Simon Called Peter," blanched in silence when Miss MacKellar mouthed the obscenities of her part at the comedy. And that, says Miss MacKellar, is too much for any actress to put up with.

So she has given Al Woods and William A. Brady, producers of "A Good Bad Woman," five days in which to find a substitute.

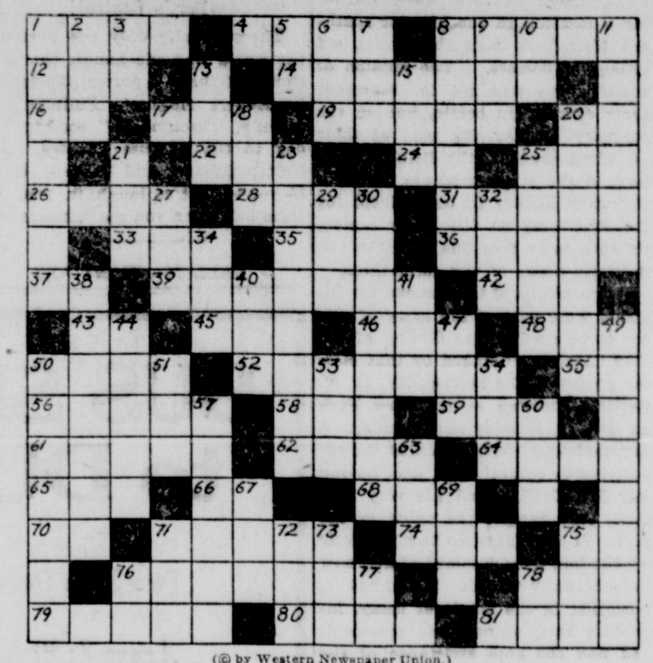

If they fail to do so she will sue them for jeopardizing her career by forcing her to play such a part.

Miss MacKellar's objections to playing Eilene Donovan, the good bad woman of the piece, cast interesting light upon just how far an actress should be required to go in depicting life, especially life of the negligee and gin variety.

"I don't mind playing the part of a prostitute if I can show her soul," the actress explained. "What I object to—well, really, there are some things in life that might be left to the imagination."

Woods and Brady believe that Miss MacKellar will overcome a woman's natural aversion to the part before her ultimatum expires.

4 BIG VAUDEVILLE ACTS

With Feature Picture to be Shown at New Park Saturday, Popular Prices

The New Park will present four big vaudeville acts and feature picture "Bright Lights of Broadway" starring Harrison Ford, Doris Kenyson and Charles Murray on Saturday matinee and night at popular prices. A short description of the acts to be presented is as follows:

Crescent Comedy Four in "The New Teacher." Crescent Comedy Four are rated as one of the best comedy quartets in vaudeville, and they surely prove same by their uproarious funny offering. Their acts brings back fond recollections of school-days, and is a scream from start to finish. They are bound to please the most fastidious.

Three Harmony Maids "Youth, Pep and Beauty." With bewitching personalities, and more than passing pulchritude, this trio of young ladies in costumes that are the personification of youth, gaily romp through their repertoire of comedy harmony singing and dancing, evincing the fact that there is absolutely nothing lacking in the act to make it perfect in every detail. The "Three Harmony Maids" are one of the most refined acts in vaudeville.

Johnson and May in "Take Back Your Presents." Johnson and May are a happy duo of fun-makers whose act consists of wholesome, clean comedy talking, whistling and singing. There is an offering that will delight, amuse and entertain any audience.

Walsh and Kramer in "Who Me? Alright." They are surely gloom dispersers, so if anyone has the blues trouble or a grouch they had better take their sorrow to the theatre and have a cure pronounced. Their wholesome comedy and singing are sure to create many happy moments for every theatre-goer.

That the people of Brainerd appreciate vaudeville that is being presented every Saturday at the New Park is evidenced by the capacity houses at that popular theatre and also by the amount of applause given acts. Speaking of applause, it is really worth while to applaud a vaudeville act that you like due to the fact that most vaudeville acts save the best part of their act for the encore. And it is a well-known fact that a vaudeville artist will present a much better performance if the audience shows its appreciation by giving him generous applause. Furthermore it is the best way the management has of finding out the type of acts that the public wants.

Reinforce Glands To Keep Young Says Scientist

DR. ARNOLD LORAND, of Austria, says in his book, "Old Age Deferred," in speaking of the glands: "We must insist upon the reinforcement of their functions if changed by age or disease by means of extracts obtained from the similar organs of healthy young animals."

Glandogen, the new scientific gland tonic, prepared in tablet form, provides a simple method of taking glandular treatment.

Hundreds of men and women who are weak, worn-out and run-down, are taking Glandogen to awaken the devitalized glands so they may continue their normal function of supplying the vital glandular secretions so necessary to physical energy and perfect health.

Glandogen is obtainable at Johnson's Pharmacy and Economy Drug Co.

40 Kinds of Pain quickly stopped in this way

There are countless pains which one can stop — stop them in a moment. The pains allied to rheumatism, to soreness, lameness and chest colds.

Millions of people have done this, and for 65 years, by rubbing with St Jacobs Oil. They have saved eons of suffering. It is folly not to do this the moment a pain appears.

St. Jacobs Oil acts in two ways. First, it causes counter irritation which relieves countless pains. Then it brings the blood to the surface to relieve the congestion which causes other pains and dangers.

Rub it on the sore spot whenever a pain appears. Rub it on the chest as soon as a chest cold starts. Don't suffer, don't take risks. And don't be forced to wait for relief. Keep St. Jacobs Oil on hand.

Nature will deal with the cause of the trouble. Or perhaps other helps may be necessary. But the first thing is to get relief. Stop the pain.

Some may suggest other ways to do this. But St. Jacobs Oil has done it for millions — done it for 65 years. You can rely on it—your druggist guarantees it. Let this time-tested way draw out the pain at once. Get it before the pain begins. Have it ready. You may in that way save many unhappy hours.

BORROWS PISTOL TO USE IN STAGE SCENE; IT PROVES LOADED

New York, Feb. 13.—"Stand back there, you coyotes," growled Eddie Garvie, pulling one of his dramatic lines as a principal in the Broadway play, "Hell's Bells."

Clifton Self, another actor, pursued his role and bravely advanced in defiance of the warning and a pistol spoke. Self pitched forward to the stage. Shirley Booth, leading lady, screamed and fainted as the bullet whizzed by her. The curtains dropped while the audience sat spellbound.

It developed that Garvie, unable to find his stage pistol for the scene, had procured one from a stage hand and didn't know it was loaded. Self suffered a minor wound in the right arm.

The play was resumed after 20 minutes. Garvie was released on bond for violating the law against possession of weapons.

COURT UPHOLDS VACCINATION IN NEW RULING

JUDGE O'BRIEN RULES THOSE NOT VACCINATED MAY BE BARRED FROM SCHOOL

ACTION OF SCHOOL BOARD OF ST. PAUL IS SUSTAINED

St. Paul, Feb. 13.—The right of city officials to exclude pupils and teachers who have not been vaccinated, from St. Paul schools, was upheld by Judge R. D. O'Brien, district court.

The court did not rule on the merits of vaccination nor does the order make vaccination against smallpox compulsory. It merely confirms the right of school authorities to exclude from the school for the time being those who have not been vaccinated.

Following a hearing attended by a throng of anti-vaccinationists, Judge O'Brien denied a motion of Frederic A. Pike, attorney for James H. Connelly, 1326 Lincoln ave., father of Sylvia Connelly, 11, pupil at the Ramsey school, asking an injunction to prevent city authorities from enforcing the exclusion order put into effect a week ago.

Judge O'Brien held that there is plenty of authority under the way to uphold the order; that there are competent officials elected by the citizens of St. Paul to guard public health and he regards the word of these officials sufficient indication of the need of the order.

He also commented upon the fact that 98 per cent of the school children now are vaccinated and that the order affects only 1,026 pupils. These, he said, are not compelled to be vacinated but if they are not they will be kept from school until the danger is over.

Arthur A. Stewart, assistant corporation counsel, cited several cases to show that Commissioners Ferguson and Clancy and Dr. B. F. Simon, chief health officer, were within their rights in issuing the exclusion order.

Mr. Pike, arguing the motion for Mr. Connelly, said he believed there was an ulterior motive in the exclusion order to "force all persons to accept the theory of vaccination."

He also argued that no epidemic of smallpox exists in St. Paul and cited figures to show on Jan. 24, when the papers in the action were drawn, there were but six cases under quarantine in St. Paul.

Mr. Pike also stated that Dr. Simon and the newspapers kept the citizens of St. Paul informed of the spread of smallpox and gave them a chance to protect themselves.

SCENES AT CAVE CITY, WHERE FLOYD COLLINS IS IMPRISONED IN CAVE, AND VICTIMS SWEETHEART

Above is shown the emergency field kitchen of the Kentucky National Guard which is feeding the men struggling to release the entombed Floyd Collins trapped almost two weeks ago in a sand cave when he was pinned to the ground by a falling boulder. Below is seen the minature electric plant established in the woods near the cave. The plant supplies light and heat to the trapped man and is also connected with radio apparatus which has been put to use to obtain the faintest signals from the pinioned explorer. The insert shows Miss Alma Clark, the grief-stricken sweetheart of Collins with who she had planned to elope. She prays constantly for his safe rescue.

"It Is the Law," Great Film Play at Lyceum

The screen or stage devotee is not often treated to the combination of a big entertainment story splendidly acted. Many a good play has a bad cast and many poor casts are seen in fine plays. But at the Lyceum Theatre a big special motion picture production, made by the Fox company and titled, "It Is the Law," opened last night and it contains that rare combination—big story and great acting.

It has its last showings tonight.

Virginia Browne Faire Appears in Support of Harry Carey in "The Lightning Rider"

Virginia Brown Faire plays the feminine lead in "The Lightning Rider," Hunt-Stromberg's second production, starring Harry Carey, which comes to the Lyceum Theatre Saturday, one day only. The choice will be approved by all who are familiar with this vivid little actress.

Miss Faire entered the motion picture profession via the problematical route of a beauty contest, and, where many of her sisters who had the same chnace dropped by the wayside, she trudged up to the pinnacles by the simple expedient of adding indomitable ambition to her perfect profile. After five short years, she has become one of our most capable and conscientious actresses.

Military Authority Tells How Bunker Hill Battle Was Fought

Late last September an American Expeditionary Force, consisting of the 18th Infantry, supplemented by a small detachment of the 16th, left its quarters in New York Harbor for a location in the hills of southern New York near the quaint old village of Somers. The mission of these troops was not to represent their country in battle, but on the contrary to play the part of their quandam enemies, the British regulars, in the stirring scenes of Revolutionary history to be depicted for the first time on the silver screen, to serve as an indelible record of the patriotic deeds of our forefathers.

These troops of the famous 1st Division were part of the army of actors to be used in the filming of the play "America," staged by that master genius of the movies, Mr. D. W. Griffith, showing at the New Park on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. A reconnaisance party preceded the expedition by several days, and, having met Mr. Griffith and his very able staff, soon caught the spirit of the play. It was found to be a patriotic production, long dreamed of and now to be actually staged. It had had its inception in the minds of many, including that of our late president, and had the able assistance of the Daughters of the American Revolution and other historical societies, all of which were interested in placing on record an accurate reproduction of the historic events which secured to this country its liberty.

Ince Films Terrific Storm in Mid-Ocean

A terrific storm at sea, culminating in a shipwreck, is one of the gripping scenes in "The Marriage Cheat," a First National picture produced by Thomas H. Ince, now enjoying a sensational engagement at the New Park Theatre. The action takes place in the fabled South Seas, where the picture was filmed.

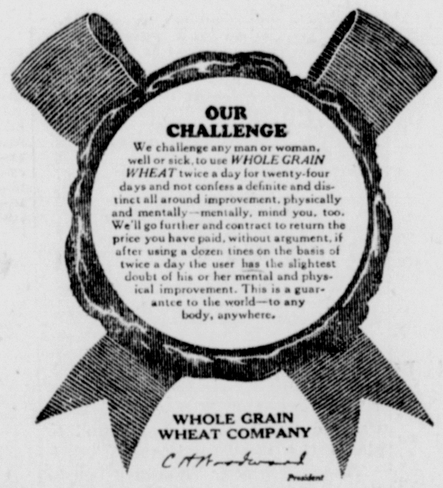

Probably never before has such a realistic storm been screened. Director John Griffith Wray, who took his company to that far-off section of the globe, waited many days before a typhoon took place, but the ferocity of it resulted in such remarkable "shots" that his patience was rewarded.

COURT UPHOLDS VACCINATION IN NEW RULING

JUDGE O'BRIEN RULES THOSE NOT VACCINATED MAY BE BARRED FROM SCHOOL

ACTION OF SCHOOL BOARD OF ST. PAUL IS SUSTAINED

St. Paul, Feb. 13.—The right of city officials to exclude pupils and teachers who have not been vaccinated, from St. Paul schools, was upheld by Judge R. D. O'Brien, district court.

The court did not rule on the merits of vaccination nor does the order make vaccination against smallpox compulsory. It merely confirms the right of school authorities to exclude from the school for the time being those who have not been vaccinated.

Following a hearing attended by a throng of anti-vaccinationists, Judge O'Brien denied a motion of Frederic A. Pike, attorney for James H. Connelly, 1326 Lincoln ave., father of Sylvia Connelly, 11, pupil at the Ramsey school, asking an injunction to prevent city authorities from enforcing the exclusion order put into effect a week ago.

Judge O'Brien held that there is plenty of authority under the way to uphold the order; that there are competent officials elected by the citizens of St. Paul to guard public health and he regards the word of these officials sufficient indication of the need of the order.

He also commented upon the fact that 98 per cent of the school children now are vaccinated and that the order affects only 1,026 pupils. These, he said, are not compelled to be vacinated but if they are not they will be kept from school until the danger is over.

Arthur A. Stewart, assistant corporation counsel, cited several cases to show that Commissioners Ferguson and Clancy and Dr. B. F. Simon, chief health officer, were within their rights in issuing the exclusion order.

Mr. Pike, arguing the motion for Mr. Connelly, said he believed there was an ulterior motive in the exclusion order to "force all persons to accept the theory of vaccination."

He also argued that no epidemic of smallpox exists in St. Paul and cited figures to show on Jan. 24, when the papers in the action were drawn, there were but six cases under quarantine in St. Paul.

Mr. Pike also stated that Dr. Simon and the newspapers kept the citizens of St. Paul informed of the spread of smallpox and gave them a chance to protect themselves.

LEGIONAIRES OBSERVE LINCOLN'S BIRTHDAY

100 Present at Banquet Given by Carl Sidney Hanson Post

LUDWIG ROE HONOR GUEST

Past Department Commander of State Delivers an Eloquent Address

The Carl Sidney Hanson Post, American Legion, Brainerd, very fittingly observed Lincoln's birthday with a banquet at the Ransford hotel on Thursday evening. About 100 Legionaires were present, including a good delegation from the range and Aitkin. The honor guest of the evening was Ludwig Roe, past department commander of the state, and now prominent in the department's membership campaign which is successfully being staged throughout Minnesota.

The banquet was preceded by a parade of the local post's drum corps, which ended at the hotel. The buglers of the corps sounded the mess call and the dining room was soon filled with hungry Legionaires who did full justice to the following menu:

Tomato Soup
Celery en Branch Queen Olives
Broiled Tenderloin of Beef
Escalloped potatoes Parkerhouse Rolls
Head Lettuce, Thousand Island Dressing
Vanilla Ice Cream, Cake, Coffee

Risberg's orchestra, consisting of Miss Meta Crawford, pianist, Julius Witham, violin, H. O. Fossum, cornet, Gust Lind, trombone and O. M. Risberg, traps furnished music during the dinner, and received many compliments on its playing. Mr. Risberg favored with several xylophone solos in his usual capable manner, which were well received.

Past Commander Kirk Smith acted as toastmasier, presenting a most interesting after-dinner program. George Sweet, present commander of Carl Sydney Hanson post gave the address of welcome, and spoke briefly of the accomplishments and the aims of the local post, with a membership of 134 which it is hoped to increase to at least 200 during the present year.

Responses were made by Arthur Nelson, commander of the Ironton post, J. W. Leighton, commander of the Crosby post, and a representative of the Aitkin Legion. Mr. Nelson spoke of the value of such banquets as the one being held, and the inspiration received from attending it. Commander Leighton told of the program laid out by his post and how such get-together banquets assisted in furthering that program.

Commander Albert Fox and Adjutant J. A. Wilson, of Pap Thomas Post, No. 30, G. A. R. were guests at the banquet, and as they were introduced received the honors due them. Commander Fox, in speaking of membership, stated that the G. A. R. experienced the same trouble during the early years of its existence, as to obtaining members, that the American Legion is now experiencing, but prophecied that in a short time the Legion ranks would be filed with practically all of the ex-service men.

Adjutant Wilson brought the greetings of the G. A. R. and recounted his experiences in that organization, which he said would be those of the Legion, also.

Attorney Heath, who has recently moved to Brainerd, gave an address on "Lincoln As a Failure," recounting the many discouraging defeats which the great emancipator had faced, but which at last culminated in the outstanding success of his life, the freeing of the negro. Mr. Heath paid a fine tribute to the G. A. R., and stated that it is the duty of the American Legion to carry on the work so ably handled by the veterans of the Civil War, who must now be relieved of that responsibility.

Mr. Henry, a visitor in the city, was called upon, and spoke on the matter of welcoming strangers into the post, and on obtaining new members. Mr. Henry has belonged to Hyde Park post, Chicago, and at Eau Claire, Wisconsin and is now in Minneapolis, where he hopes to bring in 25 new members within a 30-day period.

District Commander F. E. Murphy, of Crosby chose Lincoln as the subject of his address. He stated that Lincoln was the rugged type of American, and that there was much in his life from which the American Legion might take example, laying particular stress on Lincoln's honesty, courageousness, unassuming manner, and quality of perseverance. The speaker closed his remarks with the thought that the Legion can and will be made the greatest power for good that the United States has ever known.

Ludwig Roe's Address

One of the chief assets of the American Legion is friendship, Ludwig Roe told his hearers in the principal address of the evening. The organization is not bounded by the limits of age, for the spirit which helped America to win the great war was present in those who fought to preserve the union in 1865, and the veterans of both wars are in reality comrades and therefore friends.

The principal part of Past Commander Roe's address was centered upon Abraham Lincoln, who though of humble origin and a man of simple living has appealed to all classes of people. The growth of the man since his death is a fine tribute to him and every Legionaire was advised to learn more of that truly great character.

One of the outstanding lessons to be gained from Lincoln's life, from a Legionaire's point of view, said Mr. Roe, was the fact that obstacles, no matter how difficult, can be overcome, if one has the courage and the backbone to face them squarely. He asked that each Legionaire accept the responsibility expected of him, and in this way pay the finest tribute possible to men like Lincoln.

The American Legion has arrived, continued the speaker, and has received signal recognition. Its biggest achievement during 1924 was its demonstration of the fact that it was able to work as one unit all over the United States, and is recognized as a powerful organization and not to be considered lightly.

Mr. Roe complimented District Commander Murphy on his stand that the Legionaire is not an ex-service man, but still very much a "service" man, with a big service still to perform for his community and his country.

The Legion must be a force not to be forgotten in the program of community service and other appropriate lines, said the speaker. Each post should have some outstanding community work upon which it will focus its strength during 1925, for such an organization can only grow as it makes itself of real service to its community, he continued.

The American Legion is a big constructive factor in the affairs of this country, said Mr. Roe. In the future it is going to be a still bigger factor; how big, no one can conjecture, for there are no limitations that can restrict it.

The organization is finding itself as it never has before, or as no other order has. It has outlined a very full program for the coming year, which includes obtaining the Tubercular hospital for Minnesota, continuing the disabled service man's fight, and increasing the membership in the Legion, so that practically all eligible will be members.

In conclusion Mr. Roe asked all Legionaires to accept the responsibility that is expected of each one, and to work as never before for the furthering of the Legion's ideals. He quoted Lincoln's second speech before congress, all of which is directly applicable to the American Legion, and which is in fact its program.

Musical numbers at the banquet included vocal solos by A. C. Mraz and Roland Jenkins, the latter singing some original verses to "How Do You Do," including those sung on Brainerd night from Radio Broadcasting station WCCO. The Elks trio, composed of A. C. Mraz, Roland Jenkins and S. F. Alderman favored with two selections. Mrs. Walter F. Wieland acted as accompanist for the singers.

BREEDERS BENEFIT BY BELMONT'S STABLE

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)

New York, Feb. 13.—Sentimental reasons make it unfortunate that the heirs of the late August Belmont couldn't keep intact the great racing stable bred by the late chairman of the Jockey Club and maintain the stud that had been world famous during two generations of the family.

The sale of the racing stable and the breeding farm that had made the Belmont establishment the finest of its kind in the world was the cause of general regret among turfmen, but it followed one of the ideals the late owner had in spending a fortune for the improvement of the thoroughbred.

The strain of the great sires and mares in the nursery stud will be distributed more widely with the scattering of the stock among other big stables and the plans of the late owner that another Man o' War might be produced by the Belmont stud will be carried out by the new owner, Joseph E. Widener, before the stud is auctioned off in May.

Hard-boiled sports laugh when racing is defended as an institution promoted and operated for the sole purpose of improving the breed of the horse. It is true that the average patron of the track cares more for picking them right and crashing the books than he does in knowing that thoroughbreds will produce better horses for the world.

In the case of the late Major Belmont, however, there was a sincere and serious motive to improve the thoroughbred behind his association with the track. He was known better as a breeder than a racer. For years his silks were hardly represented on the track and he never raced anything but the product of his own farm. His only purchases were stallions and mares for the stud.

Widener, who bought the stud for a price reported in the neighborhood of $1,000,000, would succeed to the position of the world's foremost breeder, if he had chosen to keep it, but he said his only purpose in making the purchase was to help the heirs in settling the estate and that he would sell the stud at public auction on the day before the Kentucky Derby.

LAST GAME OF SEASON ON THE LOCAL FLOOR

WADENA VS. BRAINERD AT THE BRAINERD HIGH GYM TONIGHT

SECOND TEAMS OF BRAINERD AND STAPLES CLASH AT 7:30 P. M.

The last local high school basket ball contest of the 1925 season will be staged between the Wadena and Brainerd high school quints in the high school gymnasium this evening. Brainerd defeated Wadena by a low score earlier in the season with a margin of only one point, 6 to 5.

The tale, however, promises to end differently this evening, since the gym will be more favorable toward playing real basketball and the Brainerd boys have had a good rest and are in a fighting spirit.

The second team will play the second team of Staples high in a preliminary scheduled for 7:30 o'clock. This is the only time that any of Staples' men appear on the local floor this year.

Carl Adams of St. Cloud will referee the main game which will begin immediately after the preliminary, at about 8:30, giving ample time for fans from the stores which remain open until 8 because of payday.

Regular prices! Last local game! Two fast games! Let's go!

CROWDS, BRASS BANDS GREET SAMMY MANDELL

Heavy Steel Output

Rockford, Ill., Feb. 13.—Sammy Mandell, who claims the lightweight championship, today basked in the adulation of the home town folks, who turned out in full force for the welcome home.

A parade of 200 motorcars and some 5,000 men and boys, led by a brass band, was staged from the outskirts of the town, and through the principal business section.

On the courthouse steps the mayor and other prominent citizens gave Sammy the official greeting and delivered speeches, in which Sammy joined, while the crowd cheered.

It took a cordon of police to get Sammy away from the enthusiastic home folks.

LITTLE FALLS TO PLAY CROSBY TODAY

There are but three more games left on the schedule of the Little Falls high school basketball quint, two of which will be played on the local floor. Crosby-Ironton will come here Friday for a return game and the Friday following Coach Helland and his team will go to Wadena. The Brainerd team will appear here on the evening of Feb. 27 in the final game of the season's schedule. The locals will probably not go into action after that until the tournament at Aitkin March 6.

While the Little Falls team was victorious over the Crosby five in an early season game, Friday's game is expected to be a harder battle. The upstate outfit has been strengthened by th addition of Wook, a brother of Coach Wook, director of the Crosby team, and has been putting over some surprising wins in the last few weeks, looming up as a strong contender for district honors. Hauser and Fortier have settled their difficulties with Coach Helland and have returned to the team, so it is likely that at least one of them will be on the line-up at the start of Friday's tilt.—Little Falls Daily Transcript.

CHAFF FROM THE GRIST AT THE CAPITOL

(Copyright, 1925, by United Press)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—Joseph S. McCoy, white-haired Treasury Department actuary, aspires to write the perfect tax law. For years, McCoy has figured, estimated and puzzled over other men's tax bills and predicted how they would work, but back in his mind all the time has lain the perfect law. Congress, perhaps, some day may ask him to do it, just for a flyer. McCoy says its highest rate will be 10 or 15 per cent, normal and surtax combined.

A dusty old office in the Treasury Department building boasts the clock from which sprang "standard time." Two-score years ago, Washington, Baltimore and New York observed local times, varying by several minutes. A government worker whose name is lost to history conceived the idea of zoning the country into regions, observing the same time. He worked the idea out on an old walnut wall-clock in his office, providing it with one minute hand and six hour hands, each of a different color. One stands for Greenwich (London) time, and the others for Atlantic, eastern, central, mountain and Pacific time, which have been adopted. Though the author's name is lost to memory, the old clock still ticks away on the wall, pushing its seven hands around the dial.

Army signal corps officers hope some day to build a gigantic radio station in the icy wastes of North Alaska to communicate directly with Europe via the North Pole. The frigid polar air has been found to be a superlative medium for carrying radio waves and by linking up the Western United States with such a radio station through cables, overland wires, or radios, fast transmission of messages to Europe could be effected.

Arctic phenomena, including the aurora borealis, do not appear to interfere in the slightest with radio communication. Though much blame for static has been placed on the aurora, it is believed to exercise no evil effect on wireless transmission.

Signal corps men stationed at tiny Alaskan posts to afford them radio communication with the outside world frequently enjoy concerts from European broadcasting stations, notably Berlin, when completely out of touch with American stations.

This fact is what first gave the officers the idea of trans-polar commercial communication, which some day may be a fact.

Here is one for the doubting Thomases who question the claim of the United States Army and Navy to the champion marksmanship of the world. When Washington was snowed-in by the big blizzard the news photographers who "cover" the White House tried to have a little fun with cabinet officers. As Secretary of War Weeks and Secretary of the Navy Wilbur were coming out of a cabinet meeting, the photographers asked them to pose in school-boy fashion, throwing snow-balls at each other.

Wilbur and Weeks solemnly agreed. The secretaries picked up the right amount of snow, and patted out hard icy balls. The photographers got behind their cameras and prepared the focus. The cabinet officers aimed. "Fire," shouted the photographers. Weeks and Wilbur fired—and hit two cameras square in the lenses.

CAMPFIRE GIRLS TO MANAGE THE HOME

(By United Press)

New York, Feb. 12.—The Camp Fire Girls will celebrate their thirteenth birthday, beginning Sunday, March 15.

This celebration, according to the plans made by the National Headquarters, will be dedicated to the home and will take place all over the country.

Camp Fire Girls will take as much of the load of homekeeping from the shoulders of their mothers as is possible during the week, but during the week-end, they will be expected to take complete charge, doing all those things that their mothers usually do for them, such as mending clothes, darning stockings, pressing clothes, cleaning up rooms, putting up lunches and seeing that the various members of the family are made comfortable.

The official magazine of the Camp Fire Girls suggests that first the Camp Fire Girl's father and mother be her guests for the week-end. Then after finding out how much money can be spent on the house from Friday afternoon until Monday morning, she will make her budget and plan accordingly.

The Camp Fire Girl will market after she has planned meals. Then, she will cook and serve.

FIRST MINNESOTA WOMAN SHERIFF BUSY WITH WORK

St. Paul, Feb. 12.—Minnesota has a woman sheriff—Mrs. Anna Fitzgerald of Wabasha county.

Her appointment became effective yesterday.

Today Mrs. Fitzgerald was "too busy" with the affairs of her new office to spend much time on the telephone telling of what she intended to do.

"First of all I'm going to get things in order," Mrs. Fitzgerald said, "and then I'll decide what, specifically, to do."

Mrs. Fitzgerald is no stranger to the task, however. She has been connected with the sheriff's office for six years, as jail matron and unofficial assistant to her husband, who was sheriff until his death recently.

Mrs. Fitzgerald is 35 years old and the mother of four children, 3 to 8 years old.

20 GOWNS SOLD FOR WORTHLESS CHECK; BUYER VANISHES

Minneapolis, Feb. 13.—A man who ordered 20 dresses from a Minneapolis jobber and paid for them with a worthless check is being hunted today by Minneapolis police.

The dresses were ordered from E. O. Berg, 94th st. n., Minneapolis, and a check for $217 given in payment.

The dresses were delivered as ordered to 820 Nicollet ave. and the deliveryman was met at the front door and the dresses taken.

Proprietors of the store at 820 Nicollet ave. today said they had never heard of the transaction.

A. Glicksen was the name signed to the check.

Wilbur and Weeks solemnly agreed. The secretaries picked up the right amount of snow, and patted out hard icy balls. The photographers got behind their cameras and prepared the focus. The cabinet officers aimed. "Fire," shouted the photographers. Weeks and Wilbur fired—and hit two cameras square in the lenses.

CAMPFIRE GIRLS TO MANAGE THE HOME

(By United Press)

New York, Feb. 12.—The Camp Fire Girls will celebrate their thirteenth birthday, beginning Sunday, March 15.

This celebration, according to the plans made by the National Headquarters, will be dedicated to the home and will take place all over the country.

Camp Fire Girls will take as much of the load of homekeeping from the shoulders of their mothers as is possible during the week, but during the week-end, they will be expected to take complete charge, doing all those things that their mothers usually do for them, such as mending clothes, darning stockings, pressing clothes, cleaning up rooms, putting up lunches and seeing that the various members of the family are made comfortable.

The official magazine of the Camp Fire Girls suggests that first the Camp Fire Girl's father and mother be her guests for the week-end. Then after finding out how much money can be spent on the house from Friday afternoon until Monday morning, she will make her budget and plan accordingly.

The Camp Fire Girl will market after she has planned meals. Then, she will cook and serve.

FIRST MINNESOTA WOMAN SHERIFF BUSY WITH WORK

St. Paul, Feb. 12.—Minnesota has a woman sheriff—Mrs. Anna Fitzgerald of Wabasha county.

Her appointment became effective yesterday.

Today Mrs. Fitzgerald was "too busy" with the affairs of her new office to spend much time on the telephone telling of what she intended to do.

"First of all I'm going to get things in order," Mrs. Fitzgerald said, "and then I'll decide what, specifically, to do."

Mrs. Fitzgerald is no stranger to the task, however. She has been connected with the sheriff's office for six years, as jail matron and unofficial assistant to her husband, who was sheriff until his death recently.

Mrs. Fitzgerald is 35 years old and the mother of four children, 3 to 8 years old.
